Hiring Team — Control Management and Compliance

JPMorgan Chase & Co.

New York, NY and Jersey City, NJ

Re: Vice President, Control Management and Compliance Risk

Dear Hiring Team,

I started my JPMorgan career as a Program Manager in the Commercial & Investment Bank, then spent four more years as a Capital Controller and a first-line Risk Control Manager in Treasury & CIO, working as the business liaison between the business managers and the control functions. After that I led Internal Audit work at Citi. I would like to come back to JPMorgan in control management, where all three seats are useful at once.

I have run first-line controls at this firm. As Risk Control Manager I owned the control framework for Treasury and CIO capital activities, identified business risks with the business managers and drove mitigating controls, supported audit, regulatory and compliance deliverables, and automated reconciliations that cut manual review by about 40%.

I know what examiners and auditors will ask, because I have been both. I began as a bank examiner for the Florida Office of Financial Regulation, working jointly with the FDIC and the Federal Reserve. At Citi I led audits across 15+ business units and drove consent-order remediation to closure with evidence accepted by regulators. I review evidence before it goes out, challenge gaps early, and escalate precisely.

I write for senior audiences. I reported to executives and the Board Audit Committee in a simple structure: what changed, why it matters, the decision required, and who owns the next action. At JPMorgan I coordinated 50+ stakeholders into Federal Reserve and FDIC submissions against statutory deadlines.

I use AI the way a control function should. I built an AI review assistant at Citi that cut cycle time by about 35%, with every output validated by a person before use.

I would welcome a conversation about where I can strengthen the control environment.

Sincerely,

Yasir A. Malik
